raccontato dai ragazzi

This school year I have had the opportunity to join in an Erasmus project “Green Teens” with my Italian school, Spain and Portugal.

In November I went to Spain with my teachers and five schoolmates. I could use a lot of words to say how I am grateful for this wonderful opportunity to go to Spain, to visit another Country, to live with unknown people and to become friend with them. The most appropriate words to describe this experience are “unexpected” and challenging. I went abroad and stayed without my parents for the first time: everything was beautiful and challenging because I had to try something new for me. Since I had the chance to live an amazing week with some interesting experiences, one of them was going to a botanical garden. It was very cold, but the tour guide explained a lot of important and interesting things very well. In addition we climbed a big mountain which was a tiring and an amusing thing to do.

To sum up I would repeat this kind of experience again.

Last November I went to Madrid with my schoolmates and two teachers thanks to an Erasmus Project “Green Teens”. This trip to Spain was a dream which came true because I have always wished going abroad and Spain was one of my favourite foreign Countries. I have lived for a week with a hosting family of a Spanish student as old as me. I have always liked to know other cultures, other food and living in that family gave me this amazing opportunity.

I had the chance to use the foreign language I’ m studying at school in order to communicate in real life. I admit it was a little difficult in some occasions because it was the first time I had to use only a foreign language in a whole week! However, it was very challenging for me and I learnt a lot! I knew wonderful people in particular the hosting father who tried to make me laugh with some jokes whenever it was possible.

Among the various experiences the one I'll always remember was going to the mountain La Sierra. It was a bit tiring, it was very cold, it was raining and windy but at the top of the mountain the landscape was breathtaking. At the top I could see for the first time some rock goats. During the day we had some activities such as playing hide and sike; some of the instructors told us a scary story. Some of us spent the night talking, joking, laughing. The following day we began it with some group dances which I didn't know. After that we had some activities in the snow outside , after that we came back homes.

To conclude I will always remember every single moment of this stunning experience.

Now I am looking forward to hosting my Spanish friend at home, in My Country.
